

Poetry for Life $1,000 Scholarship Application

The publishers of How to Read a Poem are committed to helping people experience “poetry for life.” Poetry may already be a part of your life, and if it is, this scholarship might suit you. A one-time award of $1,000, you can use it to pursue any major. Apply up through your sophomore year in college. Deadline for submission is November 30, 2014. Scholarship winner will be announced in the spring of 2015. Your entry, whether or not it becomes the winning entry, may be featured on How to Read a Poem or at Tweetspeak Poetry.

1. Tell us about yourself:

Name: _____

Address: _____

Email address: _____

Intended or current major: _____

Current year in high school or college: _____

2. Tell us about your teacher:

Current English teacher: _____

English teacher's email address: _____

English teacher's school/college address: _____

3. Attach four original poems of any length

4. Attach one short piece describing how you came to be involved with poetry, about 50-250 words, using any voice and writing style

5. Attach one short piece describing your “poetry writing process”, about 50-250 words, using any voice and writing style

We value the time you've taken to apply for this scholarship, and while everyone can't be the winner, we'd like to make sure you receive something that honors your time and effort. Select any of the following, if you have an interest:

☐

Free poetry newsletter (weekly inbox delivery)

☐

Free digital copy of the Productivity 'short' for Spin: Taking Your Creativity to the Nth Degree

☐

Free digital copy of Inspired: 8 Ways to Write Poems You Can Love

Please send your application to T. S. Poetry Press, 21 Belleview Avenue, Ossining, NY 10562 by November 30, 2014.